What we do

OpenText Cybersecurity helps customers effectively reduce risk, preserve trust and minimize disruption. From prevention, detection and response to recovery, investigation and compliance, we help customers build cyber resilience via a holistic security portfolio of smarter and simple solutions delivered through our unified end-to-end platform.

How we're different

With OpenText Cybersecurity, customers benefit from real-time and contextual threat intelligence with insights aggregated from various threat sources in a ML platform. Our high efficacy product portfolio with low false positives serves broad set of use cases, and our unified platform reduces administrative and management complexity while providing an easy and compliant experience.

Coupled with our information management company DNA as OpenText, we leverage those insights to effectively secure information across process flows, applications and infrastructure.
